Explore color or monochromatic banding to create a sense of place by reinforcing the streetscape as a place demarcating the downtown core. These bands could narrow in width as they approach Bird Street to emphasize the Bird Street connection as a central civic space while also slowing drivers.

Benches and trash receptacles should support small town feel. Wood provides warmth to streetscape.

Explore options to use old Tolt River Bridge sections for bench and/or signage supports. Wood with metal furnishings reflect agricultural heritage of Carnation.

Wood posts for pedestrian and bollard lighting as well as bike parking accentuate the city's small town character.
